That they had little in common was appar-ent from Ambassador Wilson's remarks ent from Ambassador Wilson's remarks earlier in the day that he did not think the government had exhibited courtesy toward him in sending unofficial representatives to investigate conditions in Mexico. He spoke caustically of the methods pursued by both Del Valle and William Bayard Hale, a personal friend of President Wilson, in obtaining information. In fact, the ambassador said, he had been teld by a legation official in Cuba that Del Valle had a copy of the State Department code in his possession, an impropriety for an unofficial representative, in the ambassador's opinion.
